Mrs Marshall's Messages:

The children have settled in to their new school routine really well. Attendance is great and the children are ontime for school. Thank you for your support with this.

In the assembly this morning we discussed keeping ourselves safe when we are on our scooters and bikes, when we are walking in and around school, and how we respond sensible when the fire alarm or lockdown sirens sound. The children have had a quick practice this morning, so they know how to respond to keep themselves safe in a range of situations.

We continue to support the children to be responsible citizens and many children have applied for volunteer roles in school and have submitted application forms to be considered for the Junior Leadership Team. These are all great opportunities for the children to have a voice in what happens at school.

Thank you for your continued support, have a restful weekend.

How can we respond to unexpected events?

British Values

Individual Liberty

Unexpected events and situations happen in life that we cannot control. We can, however, choose how we respond to them and be responsible for our actions.

Protected Characteristics

Some people's religion or belief can help them navigate through an unexpected or difficult time.

We should never be treated unfairly because of our religion or belief.

In the news this week

Space agency, Nasa, says two astronauts stuck on the International Space Station (ISS) won't return to Earth until next year. Sunita Williams and Barry 'Butch' Wilmore originally went on an eight-day mission but have currently been in space for three months. The Boeing Starliner spacecraft they were supposed to return on has a problem, so they need to wait for a different space capsule to bring them home in February. The astronauts will continue researching whilst they are there.

Things to talk about at home ...

- How do you think the astronauts felt upon hearing the news that they would be staying much longer in space than originally planned?
- Can you think of a time you were in an unexpected situation or a time when you needed to change your plans? How did you deal with it?
